'My passion is capturing the beauty of creation in my art. While I use many mediums, my favorite remains graphite. It still amazes me that it is possible to use a pencil and a piece of paper to create an awe-inspiring piece of art. My goal is to teach others how to create their own masterpieces. I am a professional artist, muralist, forensic artist, jewelry designer, and teacher. I would love to show you how to "see like an artist" and use photo references to create highly realistic drawings that showcase the use of values and textures. No artistic background is required. If you have a passion to learn how to draw or to refine your drawing skills, this workshop is for you!'

Michelle Garlock is a professional artist and teacher whose work is in the collection of individuals from across the U.S. and Europe.

Come to the Triple D Ranch for four days of step-by-step drawing instruction to complete a drawing of a baby snow leopard. The workshop will also include 6 scheduled photography sessions with guest instructor Susan Cramer Stein. Susan is an award-winning photographer specializing in fine art prints.

During these guided sessions participants will have the opportunity to photograph wildlife to use as their own art references once they return home.

Tentative species list for photography sessions (anticipated baby animals):

- Wolf pups
- Porcupine baby
- Bobcat kittens
- Red fox kits
- Gray fox kits
- Badger pup
- Coyote pups
- Raccoon pups
- Canada lynx kitten
- Mountain lion kitten
- Siberian lynx kitten
- River otter pup

An organizational meeting will be tentatively scheduled for 8am on August 11 at the Triple D office for all participants. The cost is $1100.00. The workshop will be limited to 10 participants.
