Triple "D" Files

Come and kick up your heels at the Triple "D" Horse Round-Up. For the last forty-five plus years, the Triple "D" has been recognized around the world for exhibiting trained North American and exotic wildlife species for photography, artist references and cinema photography. The Triple "D" has expanded their services to offer artists and photographers the chance to experience the ultimate in equine photography referred to as, "Horse Round-Ups". Picture yourself standing in a lush mountain meadow awaiting the approach of a colorful herd of horses, driven by western dressed wranglers, thundering towards you. This and much more is now being offered during all four seasons in beautiful Northwest Montana.

The Triple "D" has been designing photography venues for years and knows what is necessary for an authentic western setting. The "Horse Round-Up" backgrounds are chosen for their unique beauty and representative of the old west. You can count on running horses in various scenes influenced seasonally. Backgrounds consist of snowy fields, mountain meadows blanketed with wildflowers, ridge tops, fall colors, all with the Rocky Mountains as a backdrop. Other photographic opportunities include portraits of the western dressed wranglers and the uniqueness of the tack on their saddle horses.

Most "Horse Round-Ups" consist of two sessions: afternoon and early morning, to take advantage of the best lighting conditions. Extend your stay, and participate in a wildlife photo session, choosing from a selection of 28 North American and exotic wildlife species, or visit near by Glacier National Park.
